

rediffmail

Mailbox of skkataria64

Subject: Wrong info in your column

From: Surendra Kataria <skkataria64@rediffmail.com> on Sun, 05 Apr 2026 09:05:15

To: "[REDACTED]@gmail.com" <[REDACTED]@gmail.com>

Respected [REDACTED] sir,

I am a regular reader of your column " [REDACTED] " publish in [REDACTED].

I found it informative and interesting. Congratulations and Thanks.

On today's column on Shri Amrish Puri, you mentioned that cancer can be spread by blood transfusion. This is a totally wrong information. A writer of repute like you is not expected to mention such things on a public platform, especially in an orthodox society like India. Even your information is true, your ethical duty is to hide such facts. Perhaps, you are not aware how such information creates new problems and extra burden for medical staff.

Regards

Dr. Surendra Kataria, Jaipur

