The Chief Election Commissioner
Election Commission of India
New Delhi.

Sub.- Permanent buildings for election purposes in each district.

Sir,

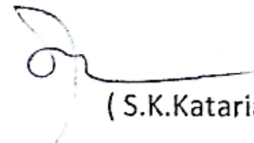

I need to submit that India is the largest democracy due to her 31lac elected representatives by various elections including parliament, state legislatures and local bodies. It means the district administration remains busy in conducting elections regularly.

Generally, the buildings of the universities, colleges or schools are taken over temporarily by the district administration for elections. During this process the routine academic activities get hampered in these institutions and also the building is ruined by the users.

It is my humble submission to you that, build or develop some permanent buildings at every district headquarter to conduct election activities and these buildings may be given on rent or daily pay-and -use basis to earn revenue e.g.- a part of the khel gaon building in Udaipur ( Rajasthan) can be developed as Nirvaachan bahvan.

Thanking You

Yours Faithfully
